Formal Notices: Fifty Fill-in-the-Blank Forms For Everyday Correspondence

Synopsis

A combination of ultra-formal communication notices and the fun of Madd Libbs â “ for grown-ups! > is a great communications and conversation-starting book.Â Use it in the office!Having trouble saying what you mean? No longer - "Formal Notices" has just the solution! This collection of fifty fill-in-the-blank letters makes itÂ easy to express even the most difficult of sentiments. For example - Did you not get offered the job?Â Send them a De-Rejection Letter. Or perhaps your love interest is oblivious to your pursuit? Try aÂ Declaration of Romantic Interest form. With a potent blend of old-fashioned formality, a health doseÂ of sarcasm and plenty of shameless honesty, you'll charm your recipient while you let your opinions beÂ known. In addition to being a great read, the truly brave can remove a form, fold it over and send itÂ through the mail. So no matter what life throws at you, Formal Notices will help you "Let That Which isÂ Unsaid, Be Said."

Customer Reviews

I was very pleased with the "used" copy of the "forms" book which I ordered. The only indication that it was usedWe're some folds in the paperback covers, front and rear, however none of the contents were affected in any way. I am very pleased with this purchase, and find the humor and thoughtfulness of the "forms" themselves to be a very happy departure from several other formats I have seen offered. This was a bargain!

Husband was quite amused.

Funny but at the same time surprising good and realistic for correspondence.Turns out that these are a pretty good guide on how to write letters. It's something that I was looking for so that my 4th grader had a reference on writing snail mail (he does these e-mails with phrases and short sentences but such falls short of really writing a letter.)

The product description does not do this product justice, if people only knew what this booklet really contained, more people would have and will purchase this item. I highly recommend this item too any and all who may be interested in this kind of thing. 10/10 AAAA+

I first discovered this book through StumbleUpon, when I stumbled on the formal apology form. After I read every word including the fine print, I hunted down the book because I had to get my hands on it. I don't know if I'd ever pull a form out of the book to send to someone, but I would definitely copy one! There's something to be said for good, old-fashioned bureaucracy - its ridiculous and should be heartily laughed at.

It's more than I was expecting! So many different formal notices, agreements and etc. Almost for every situation in your life:) I bought it for one occasion, but already used few formal notices to cheer up few of my friends. What I loved, that those formal notices are prepared for sending. You just fold a page, glue corners, put a stamp on it, write address and everything is done. Definitely will buy a new one, when this one is used.

Exactly what you're expecting. Came in perfect condition. Funny, too! Great for sending funny letters to your friends in the heat of the moment.

This is exactly what I expected it to be. The pages easily tear out so you can leave your official messages where ever you like.
